

Sweet little flower dolls

Yes, winter hasn't really worked out yet. Instead, we have a grey autumn. But: the snowdrops and crocuses are already blooming! I have to admit I'm already looking forward to spring (even if I really miss the winter). To pass the time until then, I crocheted a few flower dolls for our seasonal table. They are also very sweet to decorate a few bare branches. Or to make a gift for a loved one.

Cut off a longer piece of yarn and sew the leaf collar around the neck.

With brown (or honey) embroider a few strands of hair and weave small braids on both sides. Knot with a small piece of yarn in azalea (lilac, serenity or white).

Embroider the eyes with black sewing thread and you can paint cheeks with pink textile markers.

Have a lot of crochet fun and hopefully we will get a few more snowflakes,
